bent first class twenty-five foot house can now be built considerably cheaper than it could a year or A very good first class sixteen feet eight inches front house can now be built for $6,000 or

$7,000. Other widths front cost in proportion. We have spoken of this class of houses for the pur pose of remarking that capitalists greatly prefer to loan their messy in smaller sums on good $8,000 houses, such as we have described between Eighth and Ninth avenues, rather than to loan say $10,000 on a $20,000 house. They like the $20,000 houses, and they like the streets, and they love the little children, admire the ladies, and respect the men, but The merchants and brokers, they say, who own and occupy these houses have been known to fail, Schuy. lerize, disappear suddenly, and leave perplexing accounts behind them. Accidents, too, will happen a the best regulated establishments. Wars also will spring up, drouths will come, and devastating tires leave ruin behind them. The conclusion is, that while capitalists are very willing to lend on such security, they will positively insist ou diminishing the amount loaned to such a degree as seriously to cm

It only remains for us to say, on this branch of the subject, that there is another class of houses on which Heaven help the man who wants to borrow money. We mean tenement houses. The prejudice against them is deep, wide, and very strong. We shall take another opportunity to describe them. They have become an inevitable necessity—a regular New York institution. They deserve special consideration, and shall have it. We only add, in conclusion, that it is a description of property on which capitalists will not loan money.
